

REPORT No. 30/12
CASE 12.546
FRIENDLY SETTLEMENT
JUAN JACOBO ÁRBENZ GUZMÁN
GUATEMALA
March 20, 2012

I. SUMMARY

1. On December 27, 1999, the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (hereinafter, "Inter-American Commission," "Commission" or "IACHR") received a petition lodged by María Leonora Árbenz Vilanova and, subsequently, communications signed by María Cristina Vilanova Castro widow of Árbenz and Erick Árbenz (hereinafter, "petitioners"), against the State of Guatemala (hereinafter, "State" or "Guatemala").¹ In the petition, it is alleged that the State is responsible for violation of Article 21 (right to property), Article 10 (right to compensation), Article 24 (right to equal protection) of the American Convention on Human Rights (hereinafter, "the Convention" or "the American Convention"), to the detriment of Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán, his spouse María Cristina Vilanova de Árbenz and his children Juan Jacobo, María Leonora and Arabella (hereinafter, "alleged victims"). Subsequently, it was alleged that Article 7 (right to personal liberty), Article 14 (right of reply), Article 25 (judicial protection) and Article 5 (humane treatment), all of the American Convention, were violated as well. These alleged violations of the rights of the Árbenz family stemmed from the overthrowing of constitutionally elected President Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán in a military coup, which forced the Árbenz family into exile and led to the confiscation of their property by the military dictatorship.

2. On March 14, 2006, the IACHR adopted Admissibility Report No. 27/06, finding the petition admissible with regard to the alleged violations of the rights protected in Articles 8, 21 and 25 of the American Convention, in connection with Article 1.1 and Article 2 of the same international instrument.² In Resolution No 1/07, the Commission clarified that the right to equal protection, under Article 24 of the American Convention, had also been found admissible.³

3. On May 19, 2011, the parties entered into a friendly settlement agreement.

4. Pursuant to Article 49 of the Convention and Article 40.5 of the Rules of Procedure of the Commission, the IACHR adopts this report, which includes a brief statement of the facts and reproduces verbatim the friendly settlement agreement. After reviewing the agreement for consistency with the principles of the American Convention, the Commission resolves to notify the parties, publish this report and include it in its Annual Report to the General Assembly of the Organization of American States.

¹ Subsequent to the lodging of the petition with the IACHR, the Commission was informed that Mrs. María Leonora Árbenz Vilanova and Mrs. María Cristina Vilanova Castro widow of Árbenz passed away.

III. THE FACTS

11. Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán was elected constitutional president of Guatemala in 1951 and remained in office until June 27, 1954, when he was overthrown by a military coup led by Col. Carlos Castillo Armas and directed from Honduras by the United States Central Intelligence Agency, CIA. Juan Jacobo Árbenz and his family, which at that time included his wife, María Cristina Vilanova de Árbenz, and their children Juan Jacobo, María Leonora, and Arabella, were expelled from the country.

12. After seeking refuge at the Mexican embassy in Guatemala, the Árbenz family settled in that country for a few months. They then moved to Europe and lived in different places. The French government granted them a residence to live for one year in Paris, after which they traveled to Czechoslovakia, Uruguay and Cuba, settling in the end in Mexico once again. Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán died in exile on January 27, 1971.

13. The de facto government led by Castillo Armas expropriated Mr. Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán's and his family's property. The Government Junta issued Decree 2 of July 5, 1954, and then the dictator Castillo Armas enacted a second decree N° 68. The first article of Decree 2 ordered the seizure of property and freezing of all deposits, creditor's claims, securities, and current accounts of the individuals on a list drawn up by the Ministry of the Treasury and Public Credit, including President Árbenz. Additionally, Article 1 of the aforementioned Decree 68 awarded to the State, in the form of compensation and damages, all securities, shares, claims, assets, and goods of any sort, with no exceptions, that were, in any form, under the control, possession, holding, or usufruct of the former officials and employees listed in Decree 2. Among the assets expropriated from President Árbenz was El Cajón Farm, which belonged to the Árbenz family.

14. While he was still alive, Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán and, following his death, his next of kin, demanded the return of their property. On May 28, 1995, Mrs. María Cristina Vilanova Castro widow of Árbenz, through an authorized agent, filed suit arguing the unconstitutionality of Decrees 2 and 68, both of 1954, before the Constitutional Court of Guatemala. On September 26, 1996, the Court issued a ruling in the case, in which it declared the unconstitutionality of Article 1 of Decree 2 and Article 1 of Decree 68, and stated that they would remain null and void as of the day following publication of the ruling in the Official Gazette.

15. In 1996, the Office of the Attorney General of the Nation stated in decision 8-96 of 1996 that a legal review of the case seeking compensation for the relatives of the former President should be examined and that the place for this issue should to be debated is the legislature. In the end, the legislative bill introduced to this end did not win approval.

16. On January 31, 2003, the Office of the Attorney General of the Nation issued a new decision stating that the Constitutional Court ruling amounted to creating an obligation on the State of Guatemala, to return the property or else duly compensate his heirs. On this second occasion, the Office of the Attorney General recommended that a commission be established.

IV. FRIENDLY SETTLEMENT

17. At a working meeting on May 19, 2011, in the headquarters of the IACHR, the parties entered into the friendly settlement agreement, which is reproduced verbatim hereunder. On that occasion, the IACHR expressed its satisfaction with the signing of the agreement.⁴ In a communication received the same day, the parties requested the IACHR to keep the amounts of monetary reparation confidential. Accordingly, the IACHR has reproduced below the friendly settlement agreement signed by the parties, with the amounts of compensation redacted.

Doctor of Medicine, residing in the city of Boston, State of Massachusetts, United States of America, who identifies himself with national identity card number eight hundred million seven hundred and forty thousand eight hundred and nineteen (800740819), issued in the Republic of Costa Rica. Hereby appearing in order to enter into FRIENDLY SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT IN CASE 12.546 JUAN JACOBO ÁRBENZ GUZMÁN, pursuant to Article forty-eight (48) of the American Convention on Human Rights –Pact of San Jose- and Article forty (40) of the Rules of Procedure of the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights.

II BACKGROUND

On March 15, 1951, Coronel Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán took office as President of the Republic of Guatemala following a democratic transfer of power, his governing plan consisted of three core goals: a) make the country's economy independent, by transitioning from a semi-colonial economy to an independent one; b) make the country's economy capitalist; and c) for that transformation to raise the standard of living of the majority. As a consequence of his government policies, he was overthrown by a coup d'état on June 27, 1954.

As a result of the coup d'état, Coronel Árbenz Guzmán was expelled from the country along with his wife María Cristina Vilanova and their children Juan Jacobo, María Leonora and Arabella, all with the same last name of Árbenz Vilanova. They first took refuge at the Mexican embassy in Guatemala. Under the protection of a safe-conduct, they flew to Mexican soil settling in said country for a few months; they then moved to Europe where former President Árbenz attempted to obtain Swiss citizenship, which he ceased to pursue shortly afterwards, when the French Government authorized a year-long residence in Paris; next he traveled to Czechoslovakia, Uruguay and Cuba and, in the end, settled in Mexico, where he lived his last days.

On July 5, 1954, as a consequence of the coup d'état, the Government Junta issued Decree number 2, which ordered the seizure and freezing of all assets of several public officials of the governments of the revolution, who appeared on a list drawn up by the Ministry of the Treasury and Public Credit, in other words, Doctor Juan José Arévalo Bermejo and Coronel Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán. On August 6, 1954, the President of the Republic issued Decree 68, which awarded to the State, in the form of compensation and damages, the assets confiscated under the first decree. Among the assets confiscated from the Árbenz Vilanova family, among other things, were bank accounts, real property and El Cajón Farm, located in Santa Lucia Cotzumalguapa, where a variety of traditional and non-traditional crops were grown.

Domestic judicial proceedings

On June 22, 1966, through a legal representative, former President Árbenz Guzmán and his wife María Vilanova, brought a lawsuit against the State of Guatemala for damages, demanding the return of the confiscated assets and payment for damages. Said proceeding culminated with a ruling of the Supreme Court of Justice on June 15, 1976, in which the Civil Chamber of the Court, partially overturned the judgment of the Appeals Chamber, but ruled in favor of the peremptory objection on the grounds of lapsing of the statute of limitations or release from obligation filed by the Attorney General of the Nation and the Chief of the Office of Prosecution at the time, which put an end to the proceedings and was based on the fact that the confiscation occurred in 1954 and the suit had been filed in 1966, that is 12 years later, inasmuch as the Civil Code, legislative Decree 1932, established a period of 10 years to file the corresponding claim.

On September 26, 1996, the Constitutional Court issued a judgment in case 305-95 finding related Article 1 of Decree 2 and Article 1 of Decree 68 to be unconstitutional. Consequently, said provisions were rendered null and void as of the day following publication of the ruling in the Official Gazette.

As a result of the efforts of former President Árbenz' wife, María Vilanova, on January 31, 2003, the Office of the Attorney General of the Nation issued decision 20-2003, in which it opined: "the Constitutional Court judgment in case 305-95 dated September 26, 1996, which found the provisions serving as the basis for the expropriation to be unconstitutional and rendered them null and void, amounted for all intents and purposes to creating an obligation on the State of Guatemala, to return the property or else duly compensate the heirs to it; thus said judgment is a decision of the utmost importance, in order to define the dubious situation which gave rise to the case under our consideration today.”

On July 4, 2006, the Constitutional Court handed down a judgment in case 1143-2005 finding Decree 68 generally unconstitutional, rendering it null and void as of the day following publication of the ruling in the Official Gazette.

Processing before the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights

On December 27, 1999, María Leonora Árbenz Vilanova, daughter of former President Árbenz Guzmán, lodged a petition against the State of Guatemala before the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (IACHR) for violations of the human right to humane treatment (Article 5), to personal freedom (Article 7), to compensation (Article 10), of reply (Article 14), to property (Article 21), to equal protection (Article 24) and to judicial protection (Article 25), as provided for in the American Convention on Human Rights (Pact of San Jose) to the detriment of Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán, María Cristina Vilanova de Árbenz and their children, Juan Jacobo, María Leonora and Arabella, all with the same last name Árbenz Vilanova.

After the petition was lodged against the State of Guatemala, the petitioner’s communications were signed by the wife of deposed President Árbenz Guzmán, María Vilanova and their grandson, Dr. Erick Árbenz.

In Report 27/06 of March 14, 2006, the Illustrious Commission found the instant case admissible for violations of the following human rights: fair trial, property, judicial protection, as established in the Pact of San Jose. As a result of a material error in drafting resolution 27/06, on March 9, 2007, the IACHR issued resolution 1/07 clarifying the error and noting that the case is also admissible for violation of the human right to equal protection of the American Convention on Human Rights.

III

THE STATE OF GUATEMALA’S LEGAL AND POLITICAL BASIS FOR SEEKING FRIENDLY SETTLEMENTS

Article 25 of the Charter of the Organization of American States establishes that direct negotiation and conciliation, among other things, are peaceful proceedings for the resolution of disputes. Under these parameters and with respect for human rights reigning supreme, Article 48 paragraph 1 subparagraph f) and Articles 49 and 50 of the American Convention on Human Rights establish the possibility to reach a friendly settlement in cases lodged by private parties against the states parties to the American Convention. The two international instruments were ratified and deposited by the State of Guatemala on June 4, 1955 and May 25, 1978, respectively.

Under Government Decision 552-2007, COPREDEH’s responsibility for the National Human Rights Policy was approved, taking effect on December 7, 2007, and establishing among its provisions that “The Government shall continue to promote the pursuing of friendly settlements, before the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, a mechanism that allows for the representatives of the victims, the investigation agencies of the State and the aforementioned international body to join efforts to bring about the clarification of certain particularly serious cases, and redress the damages resulting from Human Rights violations.” It further establishes, among its guiding principles, the “best interests of the victim,” which means giving the highest priority to victims of human rights violations.

IV

OBLIGATIONS UNDERTAKEN BY THE STATE OF GUATEMALA

The State of Guatemala hereby undertakes the following obligations:

1) RESPONSIBILITY OF THE STATE

The State of Guatemala recognizes and accepts the international responsibility stemming from the breach of its obligation to ensure, respect and protect the human rights of the victims to a fair trial, property, equal protection and judicial protection, protected in the American Convention on Human Rights, and violated to the detriment of former President Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán, his wife

María Cristina Vilanova and their children Juan Jacobo, María Leonora and Arabella, all with the last name Árbenz Vilanova.

2) FINANCIAL REPARATION

The parties to this Friendly Settlement Agreement recognize the mutual willingness evinced by the parties in agreeing on an amount that allows for financial reparation of the Árbenz Vilanova family for the damages and human rights violations that were caused, based on the facts of the case before the Illustrious Inter-American Commission on Human Rights.

After a valuation conducted on February 21, 2007 by the Office of Land Registry and Real Estate Assessments of the Ministry of Public Finance of property number 3443 page 76 of book 40 of Escuintla of the General Registry of Property, known as "Finca El Cajon," located in the Municipality of Santa Lucia Cotzumalguapa of the Department of Escuintla, the State of Guatemala undertakes to pay the sum of [...] for financial reparation, to former President Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán, his wife María Cristina Vilanova and their children Juan Jacobo, María Leonora and Arabella, all with the last name Árbenz Vilanova, which covers property damages and psychological damage of pain and suffering. The State of Guatemala undertakes to make the payment by means of bank transfer, immediately following the signing of the Friendly Settlement Agreement and after the petitioners submit the notarized certificate of identification of the beneficiaries and Doctor Erick Jacobo Árbenz Canales' special power-of-attorney authorizing him to sign the instant friendly settlement agreement and to receive the payment of financial reparation; these documents must have all of the approvals as required by law for them to have full legal validity pursuant to Guatemalan law. At the time of the transfer, the petitioner undertakes to sign an administrative certificate of receipt in full and final settlement releasing the State of Guatemala of further obligations.

Under this Friendly Settlement Agreement, the State of Guatemala undertakes to fulfill the obligations set forth hereunder:

- a) Public Recognition of International Responsibility: The State of Guatemala undertakes to dignify the memory of former President Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán by holding a public ceremony of recognition of the State's international responsibility, which shall take place at the National Palace of Culture and shall be presided over by the President of the Republic.

The State of Guatemala undertakes to make the arrangements with the appropriate institutions to install a temporary exhibition of photographs of the former President Árbenz Guzmán and his family at the National Palace of Culture, which shall be subject to internal regulations and require approval of the appropriate authorities.

The next of kin of former President Árbenz Guzmán undertake to provide the family photographs that they have kept in their possession and authorize the reproduction, exhibition and, as necessary, the publication thereof. The family members of former President Árbenz shall continue to own the original photographs, except any ones that they may decide to donate for exhibition.

- b) Letter of Apology: The State of Guatemala undertakes to write a letter of apology, which shall be delivered by the President of the Republic to the family members of former President Árbenz Guzmán at the ceremony of recognition of responsibility that shall take place. d) Revision of the National Core Curriculum: The State of Guatemala undertakes to make the necessary arrangements with the Ministry of Education to revise the National Core Curriculum, specifically with regard to the government of then Constitutional President of the Republic of Guatemala, Coronel Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán and the events that took place at the time of the 1954 military coup against him; once the revision is carried out by the State and the family of former President Árbenz Guzmán, the State shall take measures to implement the proposed changes.

In light of the foregoing, the State of Guatemala undertakes to conduct the appropriate inquiry and survey to verify whether any area that is part of the farm Finca El Cajon is under ownership of the State; if so, the State of Guatemala shall take legal and/or administrative measures so that ownership of this portion of the farm can be recovered by the family members of former President Árbenz Guzmán.

V. DETERMINATION OF COMPATIBILITY AND IMPLEMENTATION

18. Pursuant to Articles 48(f) and 49 of the Convention, this procedure is aimed at “reaching a friendly settlement of the matter on the basis of respect for the human rights recognized in this Convention.” The agreement to engage in this procedure expresses the good faith of the State when it comes to carrying out the purposes and objectives of the Convention, in keeping with the principle of pacta sunt servanda, whereby States must fulfill in good faith the obligations undertaken by them in treaties. In addition, the IACHR wishes to reiterate that the friendly settlement procedure provided for in the Convention makes it possible to end individual cases in a non-contentious manner and has proven, in cases regarding several countries, to offer an important and effective vehicle for settlement that can be used by both parties.

19. The Inter-American Commission has closely monitored developments during the friendly settlement process in the instant case and greatly appreciates the efforts displayed by both parties in order to achieve this settlement, which is consistent with the object and purpose of the Convention.

20. In this regard, the Commission takes note of and values in particular the recognition and acceptance of international responsibility by the State of Guatemala, on record in the agreement of May 19, 2011, for breach of its obligation to ensure, respect and protect the victims' human rights to a fair trial, property, equal protection and judicial protection, as recognized in the American Convention on Human Rights, and violated to the detriment of former President Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán, his wife María Cristina Vilanova and their children Juan Jacobo, María Leonora and Arabella, all with the last name Árbenz Vilanova.

21. Information submitted by the parties shows that the State has also fulfilled the following obligations, which are set forth in the agreement of May 19, 2011:

1. Compensate the Árbenz Vilanova family for the damages that were caused and human rights violations that were committed. This obligation was fulfilled by the State in June 2011.
2. Public Ceremony of Recognition of International Responsibility and installation of a photographic exhibition at the National Palace of Culture. The public ceremony of recognition of the State's international responsibility was held on October 20, 2011, in the Courtyard of Peace of the National Palace of Culture. At the ceremony, the President of the Republic of Guatemala recognized the State's responsibility for the human rights violations committed against the Árbenz family⁶ and apologized: "As head of State, as constitutional president of the Republic, as commander in chief of the army, I want to apologize to the Árbenz Vilanova family, for that crime committed on June 27, 1954."⁷

Additionally, on October 17, 2011, the State opened a photo exhibition in the National Palace of Culture called "Árbenz, Fighter for Freedom and Progress" and "Árbenz, End of the Exile/Apotheosis of the Return."⁸

3. Letter of Apology. The letter of apology was delivered by the President of the Republic on October 20, 2011, during the public ceremony of recognition of the State's international responsibility, to Mr. Jacobo Árbenz Vilanova, the son of former President Árbenz Guzmán, and was published in the print media. The text of the letter reads as follows:

"Esteemed Family of His Excellency the Former President of the Republic of Guatemala, Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán:

In my capacity as President of the Republic of Guatemala, I respectfully write to you in order to send a message of sympathy, for the suffering you endured as a consequence of the coup d'état on June 27, 1954, committed against President Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán.

A first step to achieve national reconciliation in Guatemala is to effectively recognize the events that took place in the past, inasmuch as we cannot conceive of a promising future for the country, if the violent events are relegated to oblivion and are dismissed.

The State of Guatemala has recognized the international responsibility that is attributed to it for said events, especially for the expropriation of the property and forced exile of the Árbenz Vilanova family.

Accordingly and in compliance with the Friendly Settlement Agreement executed in Washington, D.C., United States of America, at the headquarters of the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, on May 19, 2011, on behalf of the State of Guatemala, I apologize to the family members of former President Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán, for the suffering caused to his family and to him, who was one of the three icons of the Revolution of October 20, 1944 and President of Guatemala during the time known as “Epoch of the Democratic Spring” and who was known as “The Soldier of the People.”⁹ (bold in original text). 5. Creating a “Certificate Program in Human Rights, Multiculturalism and Reconciliation with Indigenous Peoples,” with the academic support of the Universidad de San Carlos de Guatemala. In order to fulfill this obligation, the State prepared a curriculum of seven modules that were conducted in 10 classroom sessions, in the departments of Quetzaltenango and Zacapa. Public officials from different departments attended and Mr. Jacobo Árbenz Vilanova, the son of former President Árbenz Guzmán, took part in the graduation ceremony. This obligation was fulfilled over July, August and September 2011.¹⁰
6. Security. As agreed, the State provided security for the family members of former President Árbenz Guzmán to attend the public ceremony of recognition of international responsibility on October 20, 2011.

curriculum “reference to the government of then Constitutional President of the Republic of Guatemala, Coronel Juan Jacobo Árbenz Guzmán and to the events which took place at the time of the 1954 military coup against him.”

2. Dedication of the Atlantic Highway. The State reported that COPREDEH, without prejudice to the agreement achieved in May 2011, had begun on February 22, 2011 to make the appropriate arrangements with the Ministry of Communications, Infrastructure and Housing to name the highway to the Atlantic coast after Juan Jacobo Árbenz.
3. Return of areas of Finca El Cajon. In this regard, the State reported that the obligation was “to conduct the appropriate inquiry and survey to verify whether any area that is part of the farm Finca El Cajon is under ownership of the State;” if so, it would return that portion of land to the family of former President Árbenz and, if not, it would proceed to compensate the family. After conducting the survey, it was found that there was no area of Finca El Cajon that “is available in possession of the nation.” Consequently, it informed that it would wait for the budget to be available to proceed with payment of the corresponding compensation.
4. Photography Exhibit at the National Museum of History. Regarding this obligation, the State reported that the photo exhibition “Árbenz, Fighter for Freedom and Progress” that was installed at the National Palace of Culture on October 17, 2011, would be transferred to the National Museum of History during the second half of November 2011.

This work is in the process of being reviewed, prior to publication.”
7. Issuing a series of postage stamps. The State informed that the arrangements had been made to fulfill this obligation on April 11, 2011 with the General Directorate of Postal and Telegraph Service, the state entity in charge of issuing stamps. It noted that this entity submitted the matter to the National Philatelic Council, which is in charge of authorizing the issuing of stamps. The response of the Council had been “that, because the calendar of postage stamps to be issued in 2011 was already full, it would hear and decide on the matter in 2012.”

23. The Commission reiterates that it appreciates the significant efforts made by the State of Guatemala to fulfill the obligations of the agreement executed by the parties on May 19, 2011 at the headquarters of the IACHR.

24. Additionally, with regard to the pending obligations, the IACHR shall continue to closely monitor the steps taken by the State to reach full compliance with them.
